One of the many discounted services you get with your Highmark vision coverage

Over the past 25 years, vision correction surgery has made rapid strides. Today, more and more people who want to enjoy good vision without glasses or contacts are taking advantage of vision correction surgery, including LASIK and PRK (photorefractive keratectomy).

The success of these procedures has everything to do with the quality and credentials of care providers. That's why our Lasik network is made up of ophthalmologists and surgeons who offer unsurpassed clinical expertise and use only the most advanced, proven instrumentation.

If you're interested in vision correction surgery, your first step is to receive a consultation and evaluation to determine if this surgery is right for you or your eligible dependent. If it is, you'll be entitled to savings of up to 40% off the national average price of traditional Lasik*.
