Penn State Student Affairs

Strategic Plan 2017-2020
At Penn State, learning does not take place solely in the classroom. Outside the classroom, Student Affairs provides students with a web of support and opportunity. Our many student-centered services include helping students explore careers, find opportunities to apply classroom skills to practical experiences, grow as leaders, create an inclusive culture, explore facets of their identity, and realize a healthy lifestyle.

Student Affairs assumes primary responsibility for many aspects of the student experience. We are subject-matter experts in a wide range of areas impacting student life.

This strategic plan articulates the common purpose and direction of all units within Penn State Student Affairs from July 2017 through June 2020, while acknowledging the need to balance a proactive plan with the ability to be responsive to evolving student needs. In line with the Penn State strategic plan, this plan directly connects the work of Student Affairs to the University’s vision of becoming a leader in “learning and engagement that facilitates innovation, embraces diversity . . . and sustainability, and inspires achievements that will affect the world in positive ways.”

3.2 Enhance students' ability to communicate with others across difference.

3.3 Develop student knowledge and skills around ethical decision-making, empathy, individual leadership, and personal accountability.
Goal 4: Improve the wellness of students and employees within Student Affairs

Student Affairs promotes wellness as a foundational value in support of all we do. Wellness, a multidimensional and holistic approach to life, is an active process through which people become aware of and make choices toward a more successful Penn State experience. Wellness includes the following nine dimensions: physical, social, emotional, spiritual, financial, cultural, environmental, occupational, and intellectual.

Objectives

4.1 Enhance student wellness by creating innovative programs and services to meet the developmental needs of all students.

4.2 Partner with OHR and other relevant units to tailor staff-development opportunities to enhance employee wellness and encourage and support staff to internalize and model healthy behavior.

4.3 Create a wellness group to better coordinate wellness services and programs for students.

4.4 Advocate for University policy changes that will support a healthier community for both on- and off-campus students.
While students remain at the core of our work, the strategic deployment and maintenance of resources is crucial to our success in addressing other goals in this plan. Student Affairs is committed to leveraging our people, money, time, and cultural competence in efficient ways that allow us to be proactive and nimble.
